2nd Battalion

The 2nd Battalion returned to Egypt after the withdrawal from Gallipoli. In March 1916, the 2nd Battalion sailed for France and the Western Front. From then until 1918 the battalion took part in operations against the German Army, principally in the Somme Valley in France and around Ypres in Belgium. The battalion's first major action in France was at Pozieres in the Somme valley in July 1916. Later the battalion fought at Ypres, in Flanders, before returning to the Somme for winter.

In early 1917 the German Army withdrew to the formidable defences of the Hindenburg Line. As the 2nd Battalion advanced towards these defences in April 1917, Private T. J. Kenny attacked several enemy machine gun positions with grenades, earning the 2nd Battalion's only Victoria Cross. The battalion spent much of the rest of 1917 fighting in increasingly horrendous conditions around Ypres.

Nurse's Tribute to a Soldier

Mrs. Byrnes, of Oliver-street, has received the following sympathetic letter from Nurse Nicholson, of the Neville Park Hospital, Tunbridge Wells, England, where her son, Private W. E. Byrnes, died of wounds on 30th January, after serving three years in France : — "Ever since your boy died I have been meaning to write to you. He had the very best care he could possibly have had anywhere in England, as it is a lovely little hospital. Your boy was very nice, and it was the greatest pleasure to look after him. On Xmas Day I fed him his Christmas dinner, and we found a little silver wish-bone in his plum pudding. He wanted me to keep it for luck, but I said he needed look more than I, and put it in his pouch for him to keep. I felt for you so much in your sorrow, because I, also, have lost an only brother and my fiance in the war, but you have given your boy in the most glorious cause in the world, and I think that for his own sake that perhaps it is better that he did, because he would probably have been blind, had he lived, and never healthy again, so I hope that win comfort you a little. I have heard several times from your other boy in France, Private M. H. Byrnes, but I have never seen him. The boy I nursed was one of the nicest boys I have ever known, and I used to read your letters to him, and I shall always remember his smile."

Commonwealth War Graves Commission Headstones

The Defence Department, in 1920/21, contacted the next of kin of the deceased World War 1 soldiers to see if they wanted to include a personal inscription on the permanent headstone. Space was reserved for 66 letters only (with the space between any two words to be counted as an additional letter) & the rate per letter was around 3 ½ d (subject to fluctuation).

The expense in connection for the erection of permanent headstones over the graves of fallen soldiers was borne by the Australian Government.

(Information obtained from letters sent to next of kin in 1921)

A letter from Base Records, dated 5th July, 1921, to Mr P. J. Byrnes of Byron Street, Inverell, NSW, advised that a letter from the Defence Dept. concerning an inscription on the headstone of his son, the late Pte W. E. Byrnes, had not been answered & non-receipt of a reply within 21 days would have to be accepted as indicating that no further action was to be taken.

Private W. E Byrnes does have a personal inscription on his headstone.
