Newspaper Reports

LOCAL MEMS.

Mr P. Degidan assistant at the Gawler North Railway Station has received notice of removal to Lyndoch and his place will be taken by the man whose position he is to fill. The reason for this is that the Gawler North billet is henceforward to be considered one for a married man. Business people and the regular passengers will regret Mr Degidan's removal.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Another soldier known to the Gawler residents, Sgnr. P. A. Degidan, has died serving his country. Prior to enlisting this soldier was engaged on the railway, being first stationed at Lyndoch and afterwards at the two station offices at Gawler and North Gawler. He was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Degidan, of Yorketown, Yorke's Peninsula. He left for England in December, 1916, and after several months' training became ill. He was discharged from hospital in the October following but a short time after relapsed, and died from the effects of his illness on January 9th. In civil life he took a keen interest in all sport, and when in Gawler was an active member of the Willaston tennis club. Special reference to his demise was made in the Catholic church.

Commonwealth War Graves Commission Headstones

The Defence Department, in 1920/21, contacted the next of kin of the deceased World War 1 soldiers to see if they wanted to include a personal inscription on the permanent headstone at St. John the Evangelist Churchyard at Sutton Veny. Space was reserved for 66 letters only (with the space between any two words to be counted as an additional letter) & the rate per letter was around 3 ½ d (subject to fluctuation).

The expense in connection for the erection of permanent headstones over the graves of fallen soldiers was borne by the Australian Government.

(Information obtained from letters sent to next of kin in 1921)

A letter dated 8th July, 1921, from Base Records, was sent to Mr M. Degidan of Yorketown, Sth Australia, father of the late Driver Patrick Degidan, reminding him that a communication from the Defence Department regarding an inscription that could be placed on his son's headstone at Sutton Veny had not been replied to. Mr Degidan was advised that non-receipt of a reply within 21 days would be accepted as indicating that no further action be taken.

Driver Patrick Degidan does not have a personal inscription on his headstone.
