No 831. Provost Sergt T G Simpson, 11th Bn.

On the morning of the 11th inst., I ordered the accused to "Fall in" he did so and immediately said "I refuse" meaning that he refused to do the duty which I was about to detail for him.

No 640 Pioneer Sgt A W Cooper 11th Bn.

On 11th inst., I heard the accused refuse duty when ordered by Provost Sergt T G Simpson.

Captain R. R. Reilly. 11th Bn.

I was shipscaptain of the day on 11th inst., I was informed by the orderly officer that the men undergoing Detention had refused duty.

I went to the deck where the men were drawn up under the Provost Sergt and asked the accused if he refused to go on duty and he replied "Yes". I gave all the men who refused to work two minutes to reconsider their decision and pointed out the penalty for their offence.

The accused did not signify his intention to carry out the order at the end of the time stated.

C O P Y.

CAPTAIN CROLEY WITNESS FOR THE ACCUSED STATES:-

The accused is a member of my Company, up till five days ago he had no entry in his sheet he is a good worker and has given every satisfaction.

The accused in his defence states written statement attached.

C O P Y.

1. My hesitation to work was through being ignorant of the real nature of the consequences also through not having explained to me the regulation Detention diet.
2. I also failed to realize at the time that I was under proper Active Service Conditions. But fully realizing now how serious the situation is I am very sorry for the attitude that I took.
3. The breakfast that was given to us was complained about, and received no satisfaction, the answer to the complaint was, that we might get worse, or words to that effect.
4. We were given two minutes to decide on Deck, and during that time the Detention scale of rations were read out to us and when that was finished we were informed that we had got fifteen seconds to go, Captain Reilly then told us the extreme penalty and I showed my willingness to work by standing at ease, and noticing that others had stood at ease come to attention, I did the same, and before I could realize the state of things we were marched down below and as soon as we arrived below we sent Pte Cooper to say that we were willing to work, but he came back with the message to say that it was too late we must obey orders, or words to that effect.
5. I again say that I am very sorry indeed for the attitude that I took, and I promise that such a thing will never occur again, and will be of good conduct in future.

(Sgd) No 994. Pte E Hardy.

11th Battalion

The 11th Battalion was among the first infantry units raised for the AIF during the First World War. It was the first battalion recruited in Western Australia, and with the 9th, 10th and 12th Battalions it formed the 3rd Brigade.

The battalion was raised within weeks of the declaration of war in August 1914 and embarked for overseas after just two weeks of preliminary training. It arrived in Egypt to continue its training in early December. The 3rd Brigade was the covering force for the ANZAC landing on 25 April 1915 and so was the first ashore at around 4:30 am. Ten days after the landing, a company from the 11th Battalion mounted the AIF's first raid of the war against Turkish positions at Gaba Tepe. Subsequently, the battalion was heavily involved in defending the front line of the ANZAC beachhead. In August, it made preparatory attacks at the southern end of the ANZAC position before the battle of Lone Pine. The 11th Battalion continued to serve at ANZAC until the evacuation in December.

After the withdrawal from Gallipoli, the 11th Battalion returned to Egypt. It was split to help form the 51st Battalion, and then bought up to strength with reinforcements.

In March 1916, the battalion sailed for France and the Western Front. From then until 1918, the battalion took part in bloody trench warfare. Its first major action in France was at Pozieres in the Somme valley in July. After Pozieres, the battalion manned trenches near Ypres in Flanders before returning to the Somme valley for winter.

In 1917 the battalion took part in the brief advance that followed the German Army's retreat to the Hindenburg Line. During a German counterattack at Louverval, France, in April 1917 Lieutenant Charles Pope was killed performing the deed for which he would be awarded a posthumous Victoria Cross. The battalion subsequently returned to Belgium to participate in the offensive that became known as the Third Battle of Ypres.....

War Diary – 11th Battalion

11th April, 1917 – Louverval

The battalion relieved the 10th Battalion in the line in front of LOUVERVAL from D.20d3.6 to J.5 central.....

The relief was completed without incident at 23.55

During the evening snow fell and conditions were miserable.

12th April, 1917 – Louverval J.4.C.45

The C. O. Major R. A. Rafferty and the I.O. Lieut C. G. Ross, M.C. visited the lines in the morning & again in the afternoon.

It was decided to alter the dispositions and to move the line forward as soon as the present line had been improved and consolidated. The consolidation was completed during the night.

During the day the enemy intermittently shelled the front line and LOUVERVAL.

In the evening another heavy fall of snow occurred.

Commonwealth War Graves Commission

The Commonwealth War Graves Commission cares for cemeteries and memorials in 23,000 locations, in 153 countries. In all 1.7 million men and women from the Commonwealth forces from WWI and WWII have been honoured and commemorated in perpetuity.

The Commonwealth War Graves Commission, as part of its mandate, is responsible for commemorating all Commonwealth war dead individually and equally. To this end, the war dead are commemorated by name on a headstone, at an identified site of a burial, or on a memorial. War dead are commemorated uniformly and equally, irrespective of military or civil rank, race or creed.

Not all service personnel have a Commonwealth War Graves Commission headstone. In some instances the relative chose to have their own memorial/headstone placed on the deceased's grave. These private headstones are not maintained by the CWGC as they have no jurisdiction to maintain them.

Corporal Edward William Hardy has a Private Headstone.
